FIGHT ON TAFT CAUSES SENSATION

of Nevada, were similar. "I have read the article in The Herald," said he, "and I believe that any man has the right to express his views on public questions and to circulate the same as widely as his purse or the centrality of the press will permit."

"But I do not believe that the great mass of the American people can be misled into the belief that President Taft is not the best candidate for the Republican nomination, nor do I believe that any considerable number of Republicans will cast their votes for a man who is so widely and so persistently misrepresented."

Representative Sharp expressed, in no uncertain terms, his confidence that the La Follette movement against Taft would result in a Republican party in 1912.

"The division of the party simply means a Democratic victory," he continued, "and in my belief, a victory that will come in any case. The first-order Republican leaders are now advancing the strength of Democracy by opposing the Republican party and the very arguments that Democracy has used for years."

La Follette Cannot Win.
 Representative Harrison asserted that it was impossible for Senator La Follette to defeat President Taft for the nomination in November. He asserted the La Follette anti-Taft campaign only a minor part in the campaign that was to come.

"But anti-campaign that Senator La Follette has conducted, he said, 'can only aid the movement. The rank and file of the Republican party are dissatisfied with the Republican administration and they will soon show their dissatisfaction by the vote.'

La Follette Is Justified.
 Senator La Follette, he said, 'is growing in strength, and, although he will not win the Republican nomination for the Presidency this year, I believe he will establish himself as a power in his party. He will carry this year all states where the Presidential primaries are in force. As for his criticism of the President, he deserves of President Taft's policy, and disapproving them, he certainly has the right to voice his opinion.'

INSURGENTS HEAR PRESIDENT SPEAK

Taft Enters Into Hostile Political Atmosphere.

Aberdeen, S. Dak., Oct. 23.—Insurgents of South Dakota, into the hotel of President Taft to-day, making his defense of the tariff measure. Going into Huron, the home town of Senator Crawford, who, with O. A. Richards, divides the leadership of the La Follette movement, Mr. Taft spoke with great vigor.

It was a queer mixup of political atmosphere in which the President found himself in passing through the State to-day. On his train were Senator Gamble, a standpat who is desperately fighting the La Follette movement; Gov. Vessey, a progressive who wants to see La Follette delegates sent to the national convention; Senator Crawford, avowedly the most bitter enemy of the Taft administration in the State, and various Representatives, whose sympathies, according to their districts, lie with or against the President. President Taft left here after midnight for a trip through Minnesota, finishing the day at Minneapolis.

Explains District Government.
 In addition to the statement which Alonzo Tweedale, District auditor, has submitted to the President's commission on efficiency and economy, Dr. William Tindall, secretary to the Commissioners, and Daniel E. George, chief clerk of the engineer department, have prepared detailed statements, explaining the organization of the local government.

NO HOBBLES, HOOPS, OR HAREMS ON VIEW

Woman's Fashionable Finery on Live Models.

NATIONAL STYLE SHOW OPENS

Washington Modes and Millinery in Distinctive and Striking Originality Displayed at Rauscher's. Some of the Conspicuous Creations—Local Firms Represented.

Hoops, my dear? Not at all. There are neither hoops, hobbles, nor harems on display this year at the National Style Show, which opened a three-day exhibition at Rauscher's yesterday. But, gracious, did you see that gorgeous Paris creation? And that hat? And everything contemplated to job with the arrow of despair the heart of any layman whose job it was to describe it?

The styles displayed were not only distinctive, but striking, not only original, generally with Washington exhibitors, but attractive, and artistically correct. One of the most striking displays was that of Leinhardt, who had an inclosed showroom in the center of the larger hall, in which live models in six creations posed and promenaded at afternoon and evening sessions. One exceptionally handsome Leinhardt exhibit was of Japanese embroidery on chiffon over pink satin, with Venetian lace and mink edging around skirt and sleeves. Perhaps the most striking of the Leinhardt exhibit was a gold lace over white blue silk, all over a rainbow chiffon, which blended from an almost imperceptible pink to a dark rose color. The shoulders of the bodice were draped with this shaded chiffon, and the whole was singularly striking on a handsome blonde model.

Tweed Walking Suit.

John C. Wineman & Co. made a feature of a handsome English tweed walking suit, the feature of which was a hidden pleat in the front and back of the skirt. Sauters had an exceptionally handsome exhibit of embroideries. Iode displayed in one of the most striking evening gowns in the room, a Paris model of brocade satin, exquisitely draped after the Paquin creations.

Virginia Ross displayed a real silk beaver with broad brim and low flat crown, with white crettes at the sides. The most original piece of work in the department was a one-piece street costume of serge drawn work, made over green satin. The bodice displayed a fashioning one-side effect by means of a white blanket cover. A large black velvet Gainsborough hat with handsome ostrich plumes by Howard & Slater was worn with the costume.

Miss Edmonds Departs.
 Miss Edmonds, Theresa Tedella de Rosa, was in charge of the Lowenstein booth, where a number of handsome tailored effects were on display. The Spirala corset booth, under the direction of Mrs. M. C. Tribby, presented an attractive display. The various features of the Spirala were freely demonstrated by Mrs. Tribby and her companion, who refused to divulge her identity for publication.

Distinctive Live Models.

The Schwa live models were altogether distinctive, appearing in modish mourning suits of black broadcloth, trimmed with heavy ribbed silk, and wearing black picture hats. The booth of Lansburgh & Bro. was the Mecca for seekers after beauty hints. There was facial cream, rouge, skin food, nail polish, and able demonstrators to prove to the interested spectator what can be done by "the know."

The Goswami corset was given an attractive display in the Goswami booth. In addition, Mrs. Goswami had on exhibition a number of striking hats of unique design.

The Neighborhood House display attracted a great deal of attention throughout the two sessions. It was the most notable in the history of a long line of praiseworthy displays. An exhibit last night following the annual election of officers of the association at St. Martin's Hall, praised the great work these civic organizations are doing.

HAVE RESPECT FOR CITIZENS.

Commissioners Welcome Ideas.

Says Irwin B. Lincoln.
 Declaring that the Commissioners have great respect for the citizens' associations, Irwin B. Lincoln, former president of the North Capitol and Eckington Citizens' Association, in an address last night following the annual election of officers of the association at St. Martin's Hall, praised the great work these civic organizations are doing.

"I have heard the Commissioners state," said Mr. Lincoln, "that they depend upon these associations for the expression of the needs of the people and that they try as far as possible to accede to their requests."

The executive committee made its annual report, which showed that many improvements have been made in that section of the city. All of the officers of the association were re-elected for the ensuing year. The officers are: Dr. Edgar D. Thompson, president; William J. Hughes, vice president; A. G. Tingley, secretary and treasurer. The members of the executive committee are: Solon C. Kemm, Edward Foulke, Herman E. Blum, and S. M. Ely.

Make an Apple Orchard Your Savings Bank

Invest While
You Are Saving—

While your trees are growing they bear you interest—we pay it to you every six months. When your trees come into bearing—then the real profits begin. We manage the orchard and market the fruit—and account to you for the proceeds. Our profits depend on yours—when we make one dollar you make four dollars. The idea isn't new—it is approved by experience in the Northwest. We are accountable to the trustee and to those who invest with us for the skill and fidelity of our management.

Our orchards are in Nelson County, in Piedmont Virginia, 144 miles from Washington. The difference in freight between our location and the Northwest is a handsome profit. Our orchards are where apples grow and skilled growers prosper.

"You have to-day what I consider the best promise for an orchard, of its age, that I have ever seen. Very truly yours, J. H. SHAW, Secretary, Piedmont Fruit Corp."

"An orchard, to be a factor of importance, must have a commercial value, and commercial orchards, well cared for, are fast supplanting the hitherto more numerous small orchards."

DARROW UNDER FIRE.

McNamara Attorney Accused Before Bar Association.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 23.—Decisions by Judge Walter Hordwell, excusing two members of the bar in the McNamara case, and refusing to disqualify a veteran attorney by the defense, an attack upon Attorney Clarence Darrow filed with the bar association; further identification of J. B. McNamara, and the disclosure that J. G. Burdett, the representative of the American Bridge Company, who aided Burns in the arrest and kidnapping of the McNamaras, has for some time been connected with the district attorney's office under the name of "Manson."

The features marking the ninth day of the trial of J. B. McNamara.

The complaint against Darrow was in the form of an affidavit addressed to the local bar association by J. H. Levering, an elderly architect, who says he was first employed to aid the defense by John Harriman, that Darrow afterward confirmed the agreement, that he went ahead and spent $20,000 in getting up a miniature of the Times building and other work, and now that he cannot get his money because Darrow wants a "rake-off."

Mr. Darrow stated to-night that the only trouble in a difference of opinion over how much Levering should be paid. He considers the demand of the architect unreasonable.

CHINESE REBELS ADD TO STRENGTH

Now Control Four of the Eighteen Provinces.

Shanghai, Oct. 23.—Dispatches received here to-day indicate beyond doubt that the revolutionists are now in control of four of China's eighteen provinces, with the entire Yangtze Valley succumbing to the sway of the rebels, business suspended in many of the principal cities of the empire, and the overwhelming fear that the army and navy may go over to the revolutionists, have created a panic feeling in Shanghai. The situation is regarded as most alarming. It seems certain that unless the government strikes a decisive blow soon, the rebellion will envelop all of Central China, with the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty as its final achievement.

Two important cities fell into the hands of the rebels yesterday. They are Chang Sha and Nan Chang. Chang Sha is the capital of the province of Hunan, and Nan Chang is the capital of Kiangsi. Their capture, therefore, delivers into revolutionary hands local governments of two important provinces, thus doubling the territory in which the rebels are masters.

Chang Sha has a population of 300,000, and is the principal commercial station on the railroad between Hankow, and Canton. It is the seat of Yea-Li College, the Chinese extension of Yale University. Nan Chang is a city of 100,000, and is 200 miles southeast of Hankow.

News from the storm center in the region of Hankow is greatly delayed, but the latest reports from there state that the defeated government troops moved northward from Hankow and are now located at Sikuan, awaiting the arrival of the minister of war, Gen. Yin Tchang, who is himself awaiting re-enforcements before attacking the insurgents. The rebels at Wu-chang and Hankow are now reported to number 25,000, and to be well supplied with arms and ammunition. The big arsenal at Han Yang is being operated right and day by the rebels. Thousands of coolies are fortifying nearby hills.

A fire at Hankow last Saturday destroyed many warehouses and a great number of Chinese houses. The government is maintaining order and executing all those caught looting.

The rebels believe they will be able to defy Pekin within two weeks, unless Yuan Shi Kai takes command of the government troops and strikes quickly.

AMERICANS ADVISED OF DANGER IN PEKIN

The first official news of the successes attained by the Chinese revolutionists came to the State Department yesterday in reports from Hankow, a short distance north of Hankow, which is at present the center of the revolution.

These reports, which came from the commander of the German naval vessels in the revolutionary zone, state that the imperial troops abandoned their position about Hankow, and have retired to the north. The Chinese warships have withdrawn to a point ten miles below Hankow.

The Chinese government admits the loss of the city of Hankow, fifty miles below Hankow.

Advices received from Pekin and Hankow state that the territory between those cities is unsafe, and that the American consul at Pekin has advised all Americans to withdraw to a point of safety.

The Navy Department has been advised that the rebels are in control of a large section in the vicinity of Hankow and Wu-chang, and that this section is unsafe for travel owing to the presence of numerous bands of marauders.

JOHN R. WALSH DIES.
 Paroled from Prison, Banker Passes Away at Home.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—John R. Walsh, former millionaire, financier, railroad magnate, and publisher, who was recently paroled from Leavenworth prison, died penniless at his home, 212 Calumet avenue, from heart disease to-day. Just before he was attacked with the malady he had been going over some of his papers, seeking a way to regain his foothold in the Chicago world of finance.

The new lease of life that was given him on Sunday, October 15, was broken this morning at 9:28 o'clock after a night of strenuous battle with death. Arteriosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, was the correct medical term for the cause of his death, and it is said by the physician that attended him that it was only his will power that enabled him to live until he was liberated from Leavenworth.

Before the collapse of the Chicago National Bank, the Equitable Trust Company, and the Home Savings Bank, John R. Walsh was interested in many projects. It is the seat of Yale College, the Chinese extension of Yale University. Nan Chang is a city of 100,000, and is 200 miles southeast of Hankow.

What's the Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness, and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartics, or any nasty waters, for these will act as purgatives, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. C. D. Walter, 166 Bryant St., N. W., Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Emma Waynes, Eastmont, Va., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from gripping stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Any one wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 48 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

ELOPERS NOT FORGIVEN.
 Father of Former Pearl McDaniels Objects to Son-in-law.

The much-sought parental forgiveness, as desired by Fred Welsh, a conductor, and Pearl McDaniels, his seventeen-year-old bride, was not forthcoming last night, despite the fact that the couple obeyed the instructions of W. E. McDaniels, the bride's father, and showed him the marriage license, procured when they eloped to Mount Rainier last Saturday.

At his home, 312 Fourteenth street northwest, Mr. McDaniels said that his daughter was too young to have married. "I do not countenance the marriage," he continued, "and they will both have to take the consequences of their own acts. Welsh is all right, I suppose, but I told him several weeks ago when he boarded at my house, that he would have to leave."

The young couple are now living at Welsh's home, 160 Fuller street northwest.

Tells of Religious Work.
 Arguing for civic, social, and commercial righteousness in the great cities of our land, Rev. P. H. Swift, of Baltimore, in an address last night before a large audience at a public meeting of the Methodist Union and City Church Extension Society of the District, at Hamilton Methodist Episcopal Church, told of his experiences in religious and civic work in several large cities.

In Italian workshops more than three-fourths of the employees work ten to eleven hours a day.
